Issue 3

Develop your Leadership and Management Skills

Last year, SOLAS in partnership with the ETBs, the IDA, Enterprise Ireland and the Regional Skills Fora launched 'Leading through Change', a leadership and management upskilling initiative. It was piloted in the North East and North West regions in response to Brexit and was then rolled out nationwide to address the challenges posed by the Covid-19 pandemic. Fifteen companies from Cavan and Monaghan participated on this initiative.

Deirdre Costello, Director and Company Secretary with Aughey Screens said: "It equipped me with the skills to analyse and measure different change options for my organisation and decide in a more structured and analytical manner which option was the most suitable one to select. To any owner managers, I would highly recommend doing this course."

Micheál Briody, CEO of Silver Hill Foods, commented: "Twelve staff enrolled on the ILM Leadership course and it has been a very successful learning experience for them all. They explored areas of Communication, Change Management, Motivation, Project Management and much more. We in management have seen significant staff engagement and personal development so for Silver Hill it has been a very worthwhile partnership with CMETB".

CMETB will continue providing Leadership and Management training to enterprise, to meet the upskilling needs of employees and to help businesses rebuild and recover. Starting in early 2022 with the Diploma in Leadership and Management, a progression course for all learners that successfully completed the Certificate in Leadership and Management.
